PREFACE

THE original Gazetteer of Gorakhpur was compiled by Mr. Alexander in 1881 and the subsequent volume by Mr. Neville in 1909. Enormous changes have occurred in recent years, and the present volume brings the district history and statistics up to date. I am greatly indebted to Mr. Hari Har Dayal, Treasury Officer, on whose shoulders has fallen the burden of collecting and preparing the material.

B. J. K. HALLOWES, I.C.S.,
District Magistrate.

The 18th December, 1933.

Government forests—Delete all portions relating to forests in volumes B and C, change the heading "Forest" on page 19 of volume A to "Government Forests", delete the last three lines on page 20, the whole of pages 21, 22, 23 and the first 28 lines on page 24 and substitute the following:

The total area of these forests is about 173 square miles, split up into 12 main detached blocks, and divided for purposes of administration into seven forest ranges. With the exception of the Domakhand block, which is situated in the north-east corner of the district, the growing stock may be described as pure sal of inferior quality, though a sprinkling of the usual associates of this species is also sometimes present. Jamun grows pure along the several sluggish streams that flow through the area, and in poorly drained depressions (which are often of considerable extent) there is no tree growth at all. These areas, however, produce large quantities of valuable thatching grass, and also provide grazing for the cattle of neighbouring villages.

Although the forests are generally of poor quality and of small total area, the annual revenue of the division is greater than that of any other in the province. This is due largely to the fact that the forests are not burdened with any rights or concessions, and there is, therefore, a very keen local demand for forest produce of every description. So much is this the case, that in some localities even leaves have a market value as fuel. Similarly, contracts for thatching grass fetch good prices, the annual revenue from this source alone being about Rs.45,000.

The present poor quality of the sal growing-stock is due largely to the uncontrolled exploitation of the forests during the period 1800—1830. Much timber was then taken by river to Patna and Calcutta. Even when 20 years later it was decided that the few remaining forest areas should be preserved as such, attempts at management did not go beyond selling to the highest bidder the unqualified right to cut timber and grass within a specified area. All good trees were thus removed, and those not worth felling were tapped for gum. This latter practice has left its mark on the larger trees of the present time, many of which are unsound and badly grown, and have characteristic large swellings a few feet above ground level.

In 1874 Mr. Amery arrived. He was one of the first trained forest officers to come to India, and he at once put an end to the haphazard methods of the past.

Owing to its proximity to Gorakhpur, the Ramgarh forest was the first to be departmentally worked, but with the opening of the railway in 1885 regular fellings were extended to some of the other less distant areas. It was not till 1893, however, that the first detailed working plan was drawn up. This prescribed concentrated fellings (in the form of coppice-with-standards) for the southern blocks, and light improvement fellings (the removal of dead, dying and badly grown trees) in the more remote areas.

In 1914 a fresh plan was introduced which provided for clear fellings in these portions of the southern forests which contained a sufficiency of young poles to ensure regeneration by coppice. For the northern forests, heavier improvement fellings were prescribed than previously. This plan was eminently successful, and when it fell due for revision 10 years later the clearfelling principle was extended to all parts of the division. It necessitated, however, the inclusion of areas where regeneration by coppice could not be expected, and where some form of artificial reproduction would, therefore, have to be used. But sal cannot be raised artificially by any of the ordinary methods of sowing or planting, except at prohibitive cost, and experimental work had, therefore, been in progress during the previous 10 years with the object of evolving some new and suitable method. Eventually the system known as "Taungya", which consists in the raising of tree seedlings along with field crops, was found to give excellent results at practically no cost. Cleared forest land is given out to cultivators free of rent for a period of four years, on the understanding that they will raise and tend sal seedlings in lines 10 feet apart in addition to growing their own crops in the intervening spaces. Owing to the density of the neighbouring population and the consequent demand for land, this method of regenerating clearfelled areas proved an unqualified success, and is now one of the outstanding features of the Gorakhpur forests.

The problem of reproduction was not the only difficulty to be overcome, for the extension of clearfelling to the northern forests raised also the question of adequate transport from the more remote areas. The problem was eventually solved by the installation of a forest tramway running north-west for a distance of 16 miles from the Bengal and North-Western Railway branch line station at Lachhmipur.

Between the years 1880 and 1895 the annual surplus revenue of the division averaged about Rs.35,000. By the end of another 20 years it had risen to nearly Rs.2,00,000, and thereafter it continued to increase until the highest figure of over Rs.10,00,000 was attained a few years after the Great War. Subsequently the timber market followed the general decline in the price values of other commodities, and with the commencement of the economic slump in 1931 the annual surplus revenue fell to about Rs.5,00,000.

Changes in river beds—The river Gogra forming the boundary line between this district and Fyzabad, Azamgarh and Ballia has been continually changing its course. In 1921 it submerged the village of Majhdip in pargana Dhuriapar, but in 1927–28 this village partially recovered along with three other smaller villages when the river resumed its old course.

Since 1921 the river Rapti has been continually adding land by alluvial action to the villages in the Bansgaon tahsil which lie on its banks. Its confluence with the Ami has also moved about $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile towards the south-east from its old position near Korara, and the present bed of the river has receded about a mile to the west of Sonai Khurd. From Bharwalia to Garya Khol it has kept its original course with only minor changes, but after this it again takes a turn from east to south till it resumes its original direction at Aswanpur.

Prices and wages—The following table will show the prices of the four main food crops prevailing during the period from 1921-22 to 1931-32 :

A study of the above figures shows that prices gradually fell year by year till 1924-25 when they rose sharply owing to the late start of the monsoon. In the succeeding year also, owing to the unfavourable monsoon, prices rose even higher. These high prices continued till 1928-29, when excessive rain and consequent floods spoiled the kharif crops, and the subsequent scanty rainfall proved injurious especially to the late and early rice crop. The next three years showed a rapid decline in prices due to the contraction of currency, depression in trade and abundance of agricultural produce.

The material condition of cultivators and labourers was generally good during the first portion of the decade. There was ample demand for labour at good wages, but with the collapse in the price of agricultural produce and the depression in trade, labour too became very cheap, and unskilled labour can now (1933) be had for three annas a day in the city. Labour is decidedly cheaper here than in western districts, but during the busy season, when the sugar mills are working, the cost of labour increases owing to the demand in the mills.

Dhebuas—The use of dhebuas or Gorakhpur pice has been in vogue in this district for a long time past. When the local manufacture of dhebuas ceased, they used to be regularly imported from outside, and proved a source of profit to those engaged in the trade. The local Government very recently prohibited the use of dhebuas as currency, with the result that they have practically disappeared. The sudden stoppage of their use as money involved the withdrawal of Government copper with nearly one lakh of rupees, and about the same amount of one anna nickel coin from the local small coin depot. This indicates the extent of the currency of those dhebuas in this district.

Pages 5—7, Volume C

Agriculture—The total cultivated area in acres in 1921-22 was 27,97,513 out of which 15,39,093 was under kharif crops and 12,58,420 under rabi. In 1931-32 the cultivated area rose to 28,29,129 acres of which 15,37,327 acres was under kharif and 12,91,802 acres under rabi, from which it appears that though the total cultivated area has increased during these ten years there is a decrease of about 1,766 acres under kharif. This nominal decrease was due to the unfavourable monsoon of 1931, and in 1930 the total area under kharif was 13,09,276 acres for the same reason. The total area of the district is 28,92,110 acres of which as much as 2,35,932 is waste and only 4,93,308 culturable. The percentage of net cultivated area to culturable area is 84·8, of double cropped to culturable area 26·1; and of irrigated area to gross cultivated area 20·3. It is significant that out of a total irrigated area of 8,41,470 acres no less than 4,79,339 acres are watered from wells, and only 3,62,131 acres from other sources. The number of masonry wells has been increasing from year to year and in 1931-32, was 65,711. This satisfactory increase is due partly to the lack of other means of irrigation such as canals and partly to the increased cultivation of sugarcane.

Out of a total population of 35,67,561 in 1931 the following figures give an analysis of earners and working dependants of both sexes under the main agricultural heads :

Landlords, non-cultivating	13,101
Landlords, cultivating	67,815
Tenants, non-cultivating	4,907
Tenants, cultivating	9,90,408
Agricultural labourers	3,63,368
Cultivators of special crops, market gardeners, etc...	288
Total ..	14,39,987

It would thus appear that the number of landlords is only 5·6 per cent. of the total number of persons engaged in agriculture. The tenants constitute a percentage of 69·1 and agricultural labourers 25·2 per cent. The percentage of non-cultivating landlords and tenants combined is only about 1·3.

Page 92, Volume A

Migration—As noted above, the population of this district has increased by more than any other district in the division and is in fact 37·2 per cent. higher than it was 50 years ago. With such high figures of density as 959 per square mile for the Gorakhpur, 928 for the Deoria, 904 for the Hata and 850 for the Bansgaon tahsils, which are probably the highest in the province, a large volume of emigration is inevitable. Emigration has the advantage of relieving the heavy pressure on land and of bringing money into the district by way of remittances. Besides regular emigration seasonal emigration of labourers to the rice and jute fields of Bengal occasionally takes place soon after the rains are over. There is also a seasonal immigration of Nepali military pensioners who come down to Gorakhpur during the winter season to receive their annual pensions, and go back to their homes in April or May after purchasing their necessaries in the city. There is also a slight movement of settlers towards the northern parts of the district to take up fresh land in the less populated and developed tracts.

Weather and crops—The monsoon is usually expected about the 15th of June, but of late years the rains have been breaking a little later and continuing till the first week of October. Light winter rains occur towards the end of December and last for a week or fortnight. The following table shows the amount of rainfall in inches each year by tahsils :

From the agriculturist's point of view distribution is more important than the total amount of rainfall. The monsoon should begin with a good fall of rain followed by a short break, and thereafter moderate but well distributed rains during July, August and September and finishing with a couple of inches during October. The following is a monthly analysis of rainfall in inches in this district during the last decade :

Years	January	February	March	April	May	June	July	August	September	October	November	December

An early cessation of the rains or long breaks in the monsoon usually cause damage to kharif crops, but there has seldom been a monsoon bad enough to cause considerable damage in this district. In the case of the rice crop scarcity of rains is met by artificial irrigation. Sugarcane is the main crop and is sown in March and April, and for this the land has to be artificially irrigated previously. Catch crop, known as zaid crops, are sown throughout the spring season, and require irrigation. Damage is caused more often by floods than by lack of rain, by frost or by hail. During the last ten years the harvests have been fairly good, and no year during the decade has been declared a famine year.

Floods—Excessive rain during the monsoon of 1922 caused heavy floods which damaged the lowlying kachhar tracts. Similarly the heavy and continuous rains of July and August in 1924 flooded the Rapti and other rivers which damaged crops in no less than 405 villages of the Sadar tahsil and about 71 villages of Mahrajganj tahsil. Slight damage was also done to certain villages of Bansgaon and Hata tahsils. Again in 1925, as the result of excessive rain, the heaviest floods known for years in the district washed away a number of villages on the banks of rivers and caused the failure of crops in many villages in the normal kachhar areas of Sadar and Mahrajganj tahsils. In the years 1926 and 1927 ill-distributed and deficient rainfall injured the kharif crop, and also caused slight damage to the rabi crop where irrigation was absent. In 1927 the damage was more widespread and affected chiefly the kachhar area where barley and gujar are the chief crops. Revenue of about Rs 3,918 had to be suspended. The chief characteristic of the monsoon of 1928 was excessive rain in July followed by scanty rainfall in August and September. The excessive rains caused severe floods in the Rapti and seriously damaged the kharif crops, necessitating relief measures, while the subsequent scanty rainfall injured both early and late rice crops. The rain was, however, well-distributed in October, 1928. In 1929 the monsoon was fitful and erratic. There was a shortage of rain from June to August, but in the second half of September, incessant and excessive rainfall flooded the Rapti and Ami rivers and seriously damaged the early and late rice crops, including arhar in the kachhar and lowlying areas. Similarly in 1930 though the monsoon was not satisfactory from June to August owing to the rainfall being below normal, there was excessive rain in September, and floods in the Ami and Rapti rivers caused considerable damage to kharif crops in lowlying tracts. The winter rains were favourable, but sporadic hailstorms in Bansgaon tahsil caused considerable damage to standing crops and necessitated remissions. In the year 1931 the rainfall was deficient and badly distributed but nevertheless the harvest was generally satisfactory. There were, however, excessive rains in July, flooding the Rapti river and injuring the kharif in kachhar and lowlying tracts of Sadar, Bansgaon and Hata tahsils.

Though this district rarely suffers from bad harvests due to scanty rainfall, injury to the kharif crops of the kachhar area by floods is not an unusual feature, and when the floods are abnormal, relief measures become necessary. Such floods damage the kharif crop but are beneficial to the rabi by depositing silt and increasing the fertility of the soil near the banks of rivers. The frequency of floods has rendered the people accustomed to a sort of island life. Temporary huts are constructed every year which are washed away by floods, but any loss of life which may occur is seldom reported. Calamities due to floods might be lessened by a general protective scheme for training the Rapti, Gandak and other rivers, and by bringing into a connected system the existing isolated bunds.

Cattle—The last cattle census was held in 1930. The following figures show the variations from the figures for 1925:

Serial no	Stock	1930	1925	Variation	Per cent age of variation	Provincial per cent age of variation
1	Bulls	1,209	1,350	-141	-10.4	-10.8

15	Carts	54,944	47,660	7,284	13.8	3.6

The above figures show that there has been a uniform decrease in this district, as in the rest of the province, in the number of bulls and male buffaloes. It is noticeable, however, that Gorakhpur is surpassed only by Sultanpur in possessing the largest number of bulls, bullocks, cows and calves. There has been an appreciable increase in the number of calves of both cows and buffaloes. Unlike the western districts, the percentage of cows and buffaloes giving four seers of milk or more per diem is hardly one per cent. and eight per cent. respectively. The quality of cows regarded as milk producers is further deteriorating owing to the decrease in the number of well-bred bulls. Male buffaloes are on the decrease as the male buffalo calf is little cared for in its infancy, and its chances of survival are remote in comparison with the female which is regarded by the owner as more profitable.

There has been a marked increase in the number of ploughs and carts. The number of working cattle in the district is 7,35,285, while the number of ploughs is 3,54,898. This implies an average of 207 cattle per 100 ploughs against 215 for the whole province. Few of these bullocks are used exclusively for carts. The figures show clearly the shortage of working cattle in the district. The increase in their number has not kept pace with the increase in the number of ploughs and carts, and the strain on such cattle has become greater than ever.

Co-operative societies—No serious attempt has been made during the past few years to organize new societies but efforts have been mainly directed towards reclaiming old societies whose position had become precarious and liquidating those societies in which reclamation had become impossible. As a result, the number of primary societies in the district has fallen to 422 of which 291 are under the Gorakhpur District Co-operative Bank, Limited, and the remainder under the Deoria-Kasia Central Co-operative Bank, Limited.

Both these banks are in a satisfactory financial position, especially when the bad harvests of the last few years and the recent slump in the prices of agricultural produce are taken into consideration. The Gorakhpur Bank is one of the largest in the Province and with a present working capital of over Rs.4,00,000 paid a dividend of 7 per cent. upto 1927, cumulative 7 per cent. upto 1932 and 5 per cent. during the present year. In 1927, a Bank building was erected at a cost of Rs.17,000. The Deoria-Kasia Bank is one of the oldest in the Province and has also been distributing dividends regularly. During 1931-32 nearly Rs.90,000 was advanced by the two Banks to village societies.

Of the 422 primary societies, 131 have been established for over twenty years and 26 more for over ten years, while 67 are working on their own capital and earning satisfactory profits.

One Inspector has been especially deputed by the Co-operative Department for "Better Living" propaganda in the villages and a number of societies are combined to form "Better Living"

Unions whose efforts are directed towards improvements of sanitary, educational and other facilities.

In addition, there are 3 isolated Credit Societies for the benefit of employees of the B. & N. W. Ry and 3 Non-credit Central Societies known as Sahkari Ukh Bkari Mandal, Ghughli, Limited, Gram Sudhar Sahkari Mandal, Limited, Kasia and Majhoul Agricultural Seed Supply Society, Limited. The first of these has 16 primary societies with 700 members and has been undertaking contracts for the supply of sugarcane to the Ghughli Sugar Mills. Its own recent attempt to install a crusher worked with crude oil proved a failure owing to frequent breakdowns, insufficient labour and high fuel consumption. There are also several other isolated non-credit societies known as Gorakhpur Traders' Association, Limited, Crop Protection Society, Limited at Shyam Deorawa, Hindi Literature Development Society, each working in its own particular sphere.

The movement, as a whole, in this district is in charge of four Inspectors subordinate to an Assistant Registrar whose headquarters have recently been transferred to Benares.

Local Industries and Manufactures—With a view to estimating the possibility of revival and development of indigenous industries and manufactures, a general survey of the whole district was made in 1924. The report shows that there is considerable scope for development in this respect throughout the district.

The long grasses which have proved most valuable for the manufacture of paper pulp, are used locally almost entirely for thatching purposes. Herbs and medicinal plants are found in abundance in various parts of the district but no systematic research has been made into their possible uses. Valuable forest timber is almost entirely exported and there is little manufacture of furniture, etc. locally.

The weaving industry is still confined to the production of coarse cloth for local consumption, but some encouragement has been received since the Swadeshi Movement and Julahas have now begun to copy the Maghar type of Garha Wool obtained locally is mainly used in manufacture of ordinary rough blankets which are exported to Bengal and Bihar.

Little encouragement has been given to the fine art of embroidering Sabar and the few remaining families, who know anything of the art, are now making their living by other means.

The manufacture and refinement of Kothia Saltpetre is carried on by the Lonias throughout the district and the product exported for use in manufacture of manure. For similar purposes over 50,000 maunds of bones are also exported annually from the district

Pigs are kept in large numbers throughout the district and considerable quantities of bristles annually exported for the manufacture of brushes, etc.

A flourishing split-pulse industry is carried on at Chauri-Chaura and Sahjanwan, large quantities of Arhar being imported from the neighbouring districts and exported from Chauri-Chaura after splitting.

The Sugar Industry—A considerable impetus has been given to this industry by the Government declaration of protection on 8th April, 1932, and sugar-cane which had previously been the most valuable kharif crop in the district, as a whole, covered in 1339 Fash (1931-32) an area of about 1,72,500 acres, the bulk of which was sown in the Padrauna Tahsil. Even prior to the Government declaration there were a number of factories working in the district, but since that time factories have been established in practically every important centre of sugar-cane production and in all 17 factories were working during 1932-33. The factories worked, on an average, 171 days, during the harvesting season, with a total capacity of over 6,500 tons per day and employing over 10,500 workers daily during this period, the season's total sugar production being over 21,00,000 maunds during the season, the average produce of sugar per acre produced by factory methods being about 12.2 maunds. The purchase price of sugar-cane by factories has varied considerably between 3 annas and $7\frac{1}{2}$ annas per maund

Railways—At the end of line 10 add the following subparagraph.

“Another branch line running to a distance of about 25.25 miles from Pharenda to Nautanwa was completed in 1925 and opened to traffic from 1st December, 1925. The Sugar Mills situated at these two places have been greatly benefited by the opening up of this new branch.

Census, 1931—The area of the Gorakhpur District is 4,534 square miles an increase of six square miles since 1921. It has 17 towns and 7,632 villages. The 6,56,258 houses are occupied by 35,67,561 persons, i.e. 18,30,288 males and 17,37,273 females. There are thus on the average 5.4 persons for each house. The average number of houses per square mile is 145 compared with 135 in 1921, and with 98 fifty years ago. The total population has been classified as 1,61,063 urban and 34,06,478 rural, in comparison with 1,51,623 urban and 31,15,207 rural in 1921. Thus there are 5 men living in the city for every 100 men living in villages. The population of Gorakhpur city has increased during the last decennium from 57,985 to 75,644, of which 59,369 reside within municipal limits, 11,729 within Notified Area and 4,546 within the Railway colony. In no decennium has the increase in population been so marked as in 1921-31. The population of Gorakhpur Municipality in 1921 was 50,498. The percentage increase of 17.6 allowing for extension in its boundaries may be considered as normal. The average annual birth rate during the period 1921-30 has been 43.5 and death rate 33.3, resulting in a survival rate of 10.2. There has been a slight gain of 3,261 on the balance of migration, due to the movement of agricultural labourers into the city in search of work. This movement occurred at the end of the decade and was due to the precarious condition of agriculture.

The following table will show the area and population by tahsils.

Tahsil	Area	Number of towns	Villages	Number of occupied houses	Population		Per cent of variation		Number of persons per sq mile
					1931	1931	1921-31	1911-21
Banagaon	561	4	1,624	88,861	477,075	440,898	8.2	2.8	850
Deoria ..	582	3	1,314	99,949	539,852	498,255	8.3	2.9	928
Gorakhpur	652	4	1,109	119,457	625,238	564,534	0.7	5.9	959
Hata ..	572	3	958	98,111	517,922	492,995	4.9	4.6	904
Mahrajanj	1,339	2	1,931	135,407	702,969	639,323	15.4	1.1	507
Padrauna	928	1	1,296	129,743	705,110	660,415	6.8	1.4	760
Total	4,534	17	7,692	655,598	3,557,561	3,263,898	9.2	2.1	787

The population has increased by more than that of any other district in the division and now stands 37·2 per cent higher than it did 50 years ago. The greatest increase of population during the last decade has been in the Tahsil of Mahraganj which had hitherto been very sparsely populated. Its density of population compared to that of other tahsils is still very low as there are large forest areas

The increase of the tahsil population is partly due to the opening of many new sugar factories there which have attracted labour. The opening of the new railway extension to Nautanwan has also attracted a good many business men. There has been considerable improvement in the public health of the tahsil owing to the sinking of a number of new masonry wells, which now provide good drinking water. The Gorakhpur Tahsil shows a large increase in Municipal population, partly due to the growth of the B & N -W. Railway work shops and offices

Literature—The number of printing presses in the City has now increased to 11 of which 6 issue monthly, 4 weekly and one daily vernacular paper, of which the leading ones are Kalyan, a Hindi monthly, Gyan-Shakti, a Hindi weekly and the Mashriq, an Urdu weekly

A Hindi Literature Development Society has been registered under the United Provinces Co-operative Societies Act for the encouragement and development of literary interest and several valuable publications have been made under the auspices of the Society.

Excavation of a statue—The sentence in the seventh line "The Committee has decided, etc" should be deleted and the following inserted:

"An attractive temple of Vishnu Bhagwan has been built now and also a dharamshala. The Secretary of the Trust is Rai Sahib Babu Madhusudan Das, the younger brother of the late Rai Sahib Babu Murari Lal who did a great deal for the temple and maintenance of the dharamshala."

Tamkohn—The last sentence at the end of the first paragraph should be altered to "He was a member of the 1st and 2nd Legislative Councils. Is at present the Chairman of the District Board."

Salemgarh—The word "lately" in the third line should be deleted. After the word "Honour" in line 5 a new sentence should be inserted, "The Raja Sahib is very aged and has been granted life powers of an Honorary Magistrate. He now lives mostly at Benares."

Mian Sahib—At the end of paragraph 2 the sentence beginning "The present Mian Sahib is a minor" should be deleted and instead the following should be inserted :

"Syed Jawad Ali Shah, the present Mian Sahib, came of age in 1928 and took over his estate. He has house property in Gorakhpur and has opened a sugar factory at Pipraich and a farm at Kusmi "

Dumri—In the third line delete the words "Hon'ble" and add after Sardar Bahadur, "Sir Sunder Singh Majithia, K.T., C.I.E."

Nawab Syed Muhammad Ali Nasir Khan—Died in 1931 and his eldest son Nawabzada Syed Ali Kabir is now managing the estate. The latter has recently been made an Honorary Magistrate.

Substitute for this :

Rai Bahadur Babu Abhai Nandan, Prasad—Died in 1929. His estate and business are managed by his son Rai Sahib Babu Madhusudan Das who is both an Honorary Assistant Collector, II class, and Honorary Munsif and disposes of a large volume of work each year. He is also the Chairman of the Education Committee of the District Board and was a member of the Legislative Council in 1930. He is a public spirited gentleman.

Income-Tax—Tables XIII and XIV of the last District Gazetteer have been replaced in this volume by table XIII in a new form under the direction of the Commissioner of Income-tax, United Provinces, and it has not been possible to give information regarding city and tahsils separately as in the previous volume.

Incomes of less than Rs.2,000 were free from income-tax from 1919-20 to 1929-30 and receipts were highest during this period in 1922-23 when they exceeded 8½ lacs. In 1930-31 tax on income over Rs.15,000 was raised, while in the following year there was a general increase in rates and levy of tax on incomes between Rs 1,000 and Rs.2,000 for the first time. These changes together with a surcharge of 12½ per cent. have resulted in a considerable increase in income from this source. Gorakhpur is now a first class district as regards income-tax and the recent development of the sugar industry is rapidly increasing its importance in this respect.

Pages 18-19, Volume C

Gorakhpur Municipality—The constitution of the Municipal Board remains as before except for the addition of a lady member, Mrs. Zutshi, nominated by Government in December, 1932. The other Government nominee represents the interests of the depressed classes. The office of Chairman was held by Khan Bahadur Mr Muhammad Ismail, Barister-at-Law, from 1912 to 1931 except for the period of 1923-29 when Mr. Ajodhya Das, Barister-at-Law, was Chairman. The present Chairman Mr Adya Prasad Srivastava, M.L.C., was elected in December, 1931.

The main source of income to the Board continues to be from Octroi which provides more than two-thirds of the whole. On the whole, however, the financial position of the Board has been far from good during the period under review. Receipts have fallen short of expenditure in most years and the reserve fund invested in Government securities is rapidly dwindling owing to constant withdrawals. The closing balance of Rs.7,076 at the close of the year 1932-33 is considerably below the legal minimum and the outlook is still gloomy despite economies effected by the present Board.

Slight improvements have been made in the condition of roads by the construction of foot-paths where there is heavy traffic, while in the roads themselves kankar is gradually being replaced by stone ballast as finances permit. The chief work of the Board during this period was the completion, in 1928, of the Electric Installation Scheme introduced in 1924. Very essential improvements in the Drainage Scheme have been introduced recently and should lead to great improvement in health and general amenities throughout the town. The construction of a large drain for disposal of storm water has also considerably reduced the danger of inundation from stagnation of rain water. The danger of inundation by flood water of the river Rapti still remains, as the flood level of this river has been considerably raised, since the construction of the new road joining the Basti and Bangsaon Roads has blocked the nallah which carried much of the flood water to the Ami River.

Balmukund Lal High School and D. A - V. High School have been added to the High schools in the city, while two middle schools are also maintained by the Board. Three schools for depressed classes and six Girls' schools are also aided by the Board.

District Board—The constitution of the Board has remained the same during the period under review except for the addition of a depressed class nominee since 1923 and a lady member Mrs. R. S. Agha, nominated by Government under the Amended Act in December 1923. A non-official Chairman had been elected by each Board since 1923. 2nd Lieutenant Sahib Zada Ravi Pratap Narain Singh, Rai Bahadur of Ruddarpore was the first non-official Chairman until December, 1925, since when the present Chairman Raja Indarjit Pratap Bahadur Sahi of Tamkoti has held this office.

The principal sources of income of the Board are from local rates, Government grant, pounds, ferries and school fees, no tax having been levied since 1921. The Board's financial position is far from satisfactory and expenditure exceeded income during each year of the decade. Constant in-roads have therefore been made on the accumulated surplus of previous years and in 1931-32 expenditure exceeded income by nearly one lac—a deficiency which was made good by withdrawing Rs.34,000 from the cash balance and Rs.62,000 from investments.

As a result, the expenditure on public works during the last ten years has been very low and there has been little improvement in this respect throughout the district.

Education—Two separate education committees under the District Board have existed at Sadar and Deoria since 1929, and the number of members, originally ten, has now been raised to twelve. The table below will give an idea of the increase in educational facilities during the decade :

	In 1922-23	In 1932-33
Middle Schools (District Board)	25	34
Ditto (Aided)	1	10
Primary Schools for boys (District Board) ..	582	607
Ditto (Aided)	141	592
Ditto for girls (District Board) ..	39	58
Ditto (Aided)	22	29
Weaving Schools	1	2

In addition, 20 English classes, one Manual Training class, one Agricultural class and seven Rural Knowledge classes have been attached to District Board Middle Schools, while in the Gopalpur and Tamkohni areas compulsory education has been introduced.

Tables 3 and 4, Volume C

Public Health—The general condition of the district during the ten-year period under review can be gauged roughly from the tables of vital statistics and deaths from various causes given below :

Year	Total deaths from—				Average per 1,000 of population excluding plague and cholera
	Plague	Cholera	Small-pox	Fever
1922 ..	4,687	118	82	39,440	10 88
1923 ..	9,281	163	14	37,557	10·81
1924 ..	2,094	14,670	296	48,972	18·52
1925 ..	870	275	661	47,016	18·38
1926 ..	1,088	1,191	615	43,001	11 97
1927 ..	1,207	1,892	1,204	45,681	12·85
1928 ..	4,985	6,320	207	45,019	12 41
1929 ..	2,704	4,278	107	46,644	12 83
1930 ..	2,087	13,721	261	54,870	15 13
1931 ..	6,891	6,869	199	64,215	17 68
1932 ..	8,112	1,125	884	40,721	11 28
Annual average.	3,587	4,566	862	46,726	12 92

Year				Births	Deaths	Excess of birth (+) or deaths(—)
1922	82,840	48,612	+34,228
1923	104,137	51,264	+52,873
1924	92,942	68,122	+28,820
1925	86,760	53,752	+33,008
1926	96,504	49,324	+47,180
1927	101,780	55,304	+46,476
1928	109,153	68,571	+40,582
1929	94,427	58,975	+35,452
1930	81,104	126,313	- 42,209
1931	107,888	89 458	+24,430
1932	105,817	52,324	+53,493

A comparison of these figures with those of the previous ten years shows a considerable reduction in the annual average deaths from both plague and cholera and though in 1931, mortality from these causes considerably increased, the annual average during the period under review in neither case exceeded the average for the period 1910 to 1922. While therefore there is still scope for considerable improvement on the methods of controlling both these diseases, the recent efforts especially in the case of plague have proved of considerable value. On the whole, the conditions as regards small-pox have also improved during this period while deaths from fever also show a considerable reduction.

This district is well-known for its bad climate and the prevalence of dangerous diseases, and as such was chosen in 1922 for an experiment with regard to a separate Public Health Scheme which was later introduced throughout the Province. With two separate Health Officers at Deoria and Gorakhpur the scheme was given a trial for about one and a half years and as a result of the experience gained the following subjects were transferred from the Medical Department to the control of the Public Health Department.

1. Vaccination .
2. Control of Epidemics.
3. Registration of Births and Deaths.
4. Supervision of Travelling Dispensaries.

In 1925, Deoria was amalgamated with Gorakhpur for the purposes of this scheme and from 1927, the posts of District Medical Officers of Health and their assistants have been provincialized. The Department is concerned mainly with the four items noted above and the inspection of schools and factories, the training of teachers and boys in First Aid and hygiene, and advising local bodies in matters of sanitation, child welfare and maternity work. The medical and sanitary arrangements for various important fairs in the district are also under the control of this department. The officers of this department are also responsible for obtaining samples of food, milk, etc. under the Prevention of Adulteration Act.

Special attention has also been directed to the Anti-Goitre and Cretinism Campaign in tahsil Padrauna and the border Vaccination Scheme for the prevention of importation of small-pox and cholera into the district. Arrangements have also been made for the supply of cinchona in the Tarai areas where fever is most prevalent.

District staff—The only important change in this respect has been an experiment in the administration of treasuries. In 1929, a scheme was introduced for the amalgamation of the treasuries in smaller districts with adjacent larger treasuries, the former being reduced to Sadar sub-treasuries in charge of sub-treasury officers. In pursuance of this scheme, the Basti treasury was amalgamated with Gorakhpur treasury in charge of a whole-time treasury officer recruited from the department of the Accountant General. The resulting increase in efficiency was not accompanied by the anticipated economy in general administration and with effect from December, 1931, this scheme was abandoned and the former status of the Sadar sub-treasuries restored. The previous arrangement was, however, modified to this extent that larger treasuries in some districts including Gorakhpur were placed in charge of specially trained and directly recruited treasury officers who, in addition to treasury work, performed miscellaneous duties for which magisterial or revenue powers were not required.

Honorary Magistrates and Munsifs—There is now a bench at Deoria also with jurisdiction in the police circles of Deoria, Khukhundu, Khampar, and Salempur. The total number of honorary magistrates has risen to 20 of whom two have first class powers, 13 second class and 5 third class, and of whom 5 are in the Sadar tahsil, 3 in Bansgaon, 3 in Mahrajganj, 2 in Deoria, 3 in Hata and 4 in Padrauna. In addition to these, there are 5 Honorary Magistrates for life in the district.

There are six honorary munsifs each empowered to try cases up to Rs.200 and bench of five honorary munsifs with jurisdiction within the municipal limits.

Village munsifs are being gradually replaced by village panchayats which have proved more popular and now only seven such munsifs remain.

Chauri Chaura Massacre—This tragedy was a direct result of the non-co-operation movement which had taken root in this district in 1920, and received a great impetus from the visit of Mr. Gandhi to the district on 8th February, 1921.

The Congress and Khilafat organizers had formed a quasi-military organization called "The National Volunteers" to which recruits had been enlisted throughout the district. In opposition to a public meeting held by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Deoria-Kasia at Hata on 31st January, 1922, a meeting was held by the non-co-operators of Hata and Chaura at which it was decided to picket Mundera bazar the following day. The volunteers were, however, turned out by Babu Sant Bikhsh Singh and one of them beaten by the Sub-Inspector of police station Chaura. After this a very great gathering of volunteers was convened at Domri on 4th February, 1922, and after being addressed by the local leaders proceeded towards the Chaura police station. The mob first accosted the Sub-Inspector Gupateshwar Singh and upbraided him for beating the volunteer in Mundera. The Sub-Inspector ordered his chowkidars to disperse the mob whereupon a whistle was sounded and showers of brick-bats and lankar from the railway line were thrown towards the thana. The Sub-Inspector first ordered firing in the air at the mob. The police were, however, driven to take shelter in the police building to which the mob then set fire with oil and about 23 persons were murdered and their property destroyed or removed. Reinforcements from headquarters arrived after some delay to find the building still smouldering and only one chowkidar still alive. The investigation was carried out under the personal superintendence of the Deputy Inspector-General and a number of arrests made. Eventually 225 persons were committed to the Court of Sessions where the trial commenced on 2nd June, 1922. Ultimately, 225 persons were convicted of murder, roting, causing hurt, dacoity or mischief by fire and sentenced to death, transportation or imprisonment for various terms under different sections of the Indian Penal Code.

Volums C, Page 21

The Civil Disobedience movement—Considerable impetus was given to this movement by the second visit of Mr Gandhi to this district on 4th October, 1929. This was followed by establishment of a complete organization of District and Tahsil Congress Committees which received active support from other bodies which came into being at about the same time including The Youth League, Naujuwak Dal, Naujuwak Sewa Sangh, Kisan Sabha, etc. The activities of these bodies developed along the same lines as in other parts of the Province starting with the boycott of foreign cloth and liquor, and picketing of foreign cloth and liquor shops and the cutting of toddy trees. In 1931 efforts were made to organize a boycott of the census operation without much success and finally advantage was taken of the slump in prices and general agricultural distress to organize the campaign for non-payment of rent and Government dues generally. The Government ordinances promulgated to combat these activities were promptly and effectively applied in this district and little head-way was made by the movement which was quickly brought under control. In connexion with this work of suppression, there were six convictions under the Press Act, 587 under the Indian Penal Code, 219 under the Ordinances and 22 under the Emergency Powers Act. Valuable assistance was rendered to the district staff in this work of suppression by prominent residents of the district in the organization of counter propaganda and assistance in suppression of these activities in specific cases.

Rural boards—A number of these societies have been formed in each tahsil and while in the beginning their chief responsibility was to counteract the effect of congress propaganda throughout the district, following a great reduction in Congress activity, they are now able to devote time to the achievement of the other main object for which they were founded, namely the improvement of the social and economic condition of the agricultural community in general. Meetings have been regularly held and instructive lectures dealing with various aspects of the work of these boards have been delivered in various parts of the district and valuable assistance given by the touring van of the Publicity Department, which has visited the district on several occasions and given demonstrations at one or two places in each tahsil. The boards have done useful work in showing to villagers the futility of boycotting, picketing and the no-rent campaign and of maintaining a perpetual feud with zamindars.

More recently the activities of these boards have been directed to the education of the public in the principles of the New Constitution and the methods by which it can best be worked.

BASTI DISTRICT

ALLAHABAD.
SUPERINTENDENT, PRINTING AND STATIONERY, UNITED PROVINCES
1935

Alterations and additions to Part A of the Basti Gazetteer, bringing it up to date (1932)

CHAPTER I

SUPPLEMENT TO PARAGRAPH 13

Floods—In 1922 there were floods in the Gagra and Ami Rivers and in 1923, there were local floods in low-lying tracts. The district was fortunate in escaping floods in 1924, when the western part of the United Provinces suffered a havoc, but in 1925 there were serious floods in the Rapti and its tributaries, the Burhi Rapti and Binganga, causing considerable damage to riparian tracts in the Bansī tahsil. In 1928 there were again floods in the Ami and Rapti, in 1930 in the Ami, and in 1931 in the Ami, Rapti and Gagra. It appears that floods in river Ami have become almost an annual affair, and cause serious damage to the kharif crops of the kachchar area in tahsil Khalilabad. Floods in river Rapti which occur less frequently, cause damage largely in Bansī and Khalilabad tahsils, and floods in river Gagra, which occur still less frequently, cause damage to the Harraiya and Basti tahsils.

Supplement to page 28

Cattle census—According to the cattle census of 1930 the number of plough animals in the district (including male buffaloes and excluding young stock) was 562,527 giving an average of 2.10 per plough. As against this the number of plough animals was 537,119 in 1925 and 531,265 in 1920.

The continued increase in the number of plough animals is due to the progressive increase in the cultivated area and partly to the tendency to intensive cultivation in agriculture, encouraged by the high price of foodstuffs which were prevalent up to the end of 1929. The price of an ordinary pair of bullocks ranged from Rs.50 to Rs.90 up to the end of 1930, but since 1931 there has been a sudden drop in the prices of cattle in common with the slump in prices of all other articles and a pair of bullocks can now be had for Rs 30 to Rs.50

The number of cows in 1930 was 259,358 against 257,141 in 1925 and the number of young stock in 1930 was 401,383 as against 363,806 in 1925.

The important cattle markets in the district are Munderipur in tahsil Harraiya; Nagar, Raja Bazar and Munderwa in tahsil Basti; Gubrahwa in tahsil Bansi, and Simariawan and Khalilabad in tahsil Khalilabad,

The subjoined statement gives the number of sheep, goats and ponies from 1909 up to 1930 :

Year				Sheep	Goats	Horses and ponies
1909	48,311	248,881	10,150
1914	48,601	2,32,528	10,807
1920	41,061	106,051	9,665
1925	46,110	238,650	9,918
1930	49,120	250,824	10,756

In 1930 there were 109 mules, 7,526 donkeys and 39 camels as against 162 mules, 7,288 donkeys and 50 camels in 1925

Supplement to page 32

Plague—During the decade 1921-22 to 1931-32, plague took toll of 28,565 lives. The highest mortality was 9,822 in 1922-23 and the next highest was 3,950 in 1928-29. Plague mortality was high in 1927-28 and 1931-32, also, viz., 3,636 and 3,163 respectively. The lowest mortality was 723 in 1930-31.

The District Health staff has carried on an intensive campaign of inoculation against plague. The number of inoculations was 13,729 in 1927-28 and 10,043 in 1928-29.

Cholera.—The district has not been free from cholera for a single year during the last decade. The most violent outbreak was in 1929-30 when it exacted a toll of 8,032 people. Other years of serious outbreak of cholera were 1926-27 when 4,577 people were carried off, and 1928-29 when the death roll was 3,400. The year least affected was 1922-23 when only 26 persons died of cholera.

CHAPTER II

PAGES 35 TO 39

Agricultural Statistics of 1339 Fash

The area of the district as shown in the last professional survey is 1,786,888 acres. According to the Milan Khasra statement for 1339 Fash, it is 1,797,759 acres as against 1,804,016 acres of 1329 Fash and 1,796,625 acres of 1320 Fash.

The total cultivated area is 1,323,401 acres as against 1,312,262 acres in 1329 Fash and 1,271,787 acres in 1320 Fash. The figures show a steady rise in the cultivated area, which is now 73·6 per cent. of the total area as against 72·8 per cent in 1329 Fash. There is little room for further increase

Of the area not under cultivation, 177,921 acres or nearly 9·9 per cent is barren waste, and 296,437 acres or nearly 16·5 per cent. is culturable waste. The latter figure includes 46,604 acres occupied by groves as against 46,842 acres in 1329 Fash. It appears that the decrease in the grove area continues unchecked.

The irrigated area is 646,210 acres as against 617,068 in 1329 Fash and 496,176 in 1320 Fash.

A revised table (Table V) showing statistics of cultivation and irrigation for 1339 Fash is appended herewith.

CHAPTER II

SUPPLEMENT TO PAGE 72

The census of 1931—The population of this district is 2,078,024 according to the census of 1931. This shows an increase of 152,796 or 7·9 per cent. (on the census of 1921. The male population shows an increase of 8·4 per cent, and female population of only 7·4 per cent. The Muhammadan population shows an increase of 11·1 and 10·8 per cent. respectively in male and females as against 7·8 and 6·7 respectively among the Hindus. The percentage of increase of population is thus higher in the last decade than in the decade previous to it.

Over one-fourth of the population, viz. 552,544, was returned as "depressed classes."

The average density of population now works out to 737.2 per square mile as against 632.9 in 1921 and 653.2 in 1911. Of the tahsils Khalilabad stands first with a density of 805 and Bansi second with a density of 777. The rest in order of density are Basti, Harraiya and Domariaganj with 758, 701 and 642 respectively.

CHAPTER IV

SUPPLEMENT TO PAGES 111—112

District staff—The present sanctioned staff consists of six sub-divisional officers, one treasury officer, one second class officer and five tahsildars. Besides, there is one income-tax officer.

There are two honorary magistrates with first class magisterial powers, five with second class powers and seven with third class powers. Of these five form a bench at Basti and two at Menhdawal. There is also an honorary assistant collector of the first class

Cases committed to sessions are now tried by the Additional Sessions Judge of Basti and by an Assistant Sessions Judge, both sitting at Basti. The Additional Sessions Judge also hears criminal appeals and revisions Original civil suits are tried by the Munsif of Bansi stationed at Bansi, the Munsif of Basti and the Subordinate Judge of Basti sitting at Basti. When work increases an additional Munsif or Subordinate Judge is temporarily posted. Appeals from the decisions of Munsifs are heard by the Subordinate Judge and from the decisions of the latter in suits valued at Rs 5,000 and under by the Additional District Judge of Gorakhpur stationed at Basti.

SUPPLEMENT TO PAGE 123

After the supplementary account of the last settlement add :

The tahsils of Domariganj and Bansī were placed under roster operations in 1930. M. Ahmad Hasan, B.A., Deputy Collector, was appointed special officer for Domariganj tahsil and Mr Agha Mirza, Deputy Collector, for Bansī tahsil. The special officers produced their reports early in 1931.

SUPPLEMENT TO PAGE 125

Police force—The police force consists of the Superintendent of Police, one Deputy Superintendent of Police, 2 Circle Inspectors, one Prosecuting Inspector, 45 Sub Inspectors, 37 head constables, 6 naiks and 326 constables of the civil police. Besides, there are 1 Inspector, 1 Sub-Inspector, 9 head constables, 12 naiks and 99 constables of the Armed Police. The total of officers and men comes to 543. The total cost of the District Police (excluding travelling allowance) comes to Rs.1,73,112,

SUPPLEMENT TO PAGE 138

Veterinary—There are at present four veterinary assistants attached to the district. Each of them has charge of a dispensary and is also required to perform travelling duties in his circle. There is a compounder in the Basti dispensary.

CHAPTER V

SUPPLEMENT TO PAGE 164

The district was not free from the effects of the Civil Disobedience Movement started with the breaking of the Salt Law in May, 1930. Timely and prompt action taken by Mr. R. H. G Johnston, I.C.S., the then District Officer, checked the movement in the very beginning, and the activities of the satyagrahis never assumed large proportions in this district. The District Aman Sabha proved to be very useful.

District Gazetteers
OF THE
United Provinces of Agra and Oudh

Supplementary Notes and Statistics up to 1931-2
VOLUME XXXIII (D)

AZAMGARH DISTRICT

ALLAHABAD.
SUPERINTENDENT, PRINTING AND STATIONERY, UNITED PROVINCES
1935

- FOREWORD

THE last gazetteer of Azamgarh District was compiled by Mr. D. L. Drake Brockman, I.C.S., in 1911. The supplementary notes, prepared afterwards in 1916 and 1924, were rather sketchy and did not bring the gazetteer up to date in all its aspects. The notes prepared this year will be found quite copious and authenticated with new details. The articles on literature, health scheme, occupations of the people and administration will be found particularly interesting.

I am deeply indebted to Pandit Kesho Chand Shukla, Deputy Collector, for the immense pains he has taken in collecting the data and preparing these notes. He has displayed great ability and resourcefulness in the work.

HUKAM SINGH,
Collector.

AZAMGARH :
The 5th October, 1934.

Notes by Pandit K. C. Shukla

CHAPTER I

GENERAL FEATURES

Boundaries and areas

Page 1, line 25

After square miles add the sentence "There have been minor variations in the areas of Deogaon, Mahul, Muhammadabad, Ghosi and Nizamabad tahsils during 1316, 1318, 1322, 1325 and 1327 to 1330 Fash as will appear from appendix V. These are due to changes effected by partition of mahals or villages. Changes in the area of tahsil Sagri in the years 1317, 1318, 1320, 1322, 1325 and 1326 Fash are due to the fluvial action of the Ghagra river. In 1324 Fash the figures for certain villages under quinquennial system were not included as the settlement operation had not been completed. This accounts for the abnormal low figure during that year."

Line 28

After "Fyzabad territory" add "The district is nineteenth; in order of size in the United Provinces."

The Ghagra river

After "river" add the sentence "It was damaged at four places in or about 1917 and again at Sarangpur in 1922 and had to be re-erected. A new spur, about 4 furlongs long, was added near Kishunpura in 1927."

Line 21

After "between the two districts" add "No important change has taken place in this position since, except that the first (northernmost) channel has formed itself into two streams. The southernmost channel still meets the minor current at Gangipur, while the others do so at a short distance to the west of this village. Except the southernmost branch, all other channels dry up after the winter season. At times the southern branch also dries up."

Lakes and swamps

For "140,000 acres" read "94,721 acres."

Page 9, line 19

For "5,000 acres" read "1,000 and 4,500 acres respectively."

Waste land

Page 10, lines 33 and 34

Delete the clause "while those . . . appendix."

Line 35

Delete "preceding" before years and add "preceding 1908" after it.

Page 11, line 2

After the sentence ending with "total area" add "In 1915 the area was 266,786 acres which was nearly 18 per cent. of the total area. In 1932 the area went down to 255,679 acres, but the proportion to the total area remained nearly the same."

Line 6

Read "94,721 acres" for "140,000 acres."

Line 7

Read "40,990 acres" for "44,470 acres."

Line 9

Read "119,968 acres" for "151,800 acres."

Disease*Page 20, line 8*

At the end of the paragraph add "The records of the last 10 years show a constant progress in preventive measures taken by Veterinary Assistants. There prevailed a certain number of cattle diseases throughout the years 1929 to 1933. In 1929 it increased in Muhammadabad, Deogaon and Ahraula tahsils during July and August. In 1930 it increased in tahsils Sagri and Ghosi during the last quarter of the year. In 1931 the tahsils of Nizamabad, Muhammadabad and Ahraula were generally affected. The worst year was 1932 when there was an abnormal increase—the number of seizures being double and deaths exceeding the previous years' figures by 58 per cent. One hundred and nine villages were affected, seizures being 690 and deaths 387 in all.

No particular reasons could be allotted to this epidemic. In 1933 there was a slight decrease, i.e. 586 seizures and 372 deaths. Considering the number of cattle and the area of the district these figures cannot be regarded as very high."

Rainfall*Page 21, line 26Read "Phulpur" for "Mahul."Read "Sagri" for "Jianpur"Line 27Delete the clause "the last named . . tahsil Sagri"Line 30Add "preceding 1908" after "47 years."Change "has been" into "was"Change "is" into "was."Page 22, line 2Add "preceding 1908" after "47 years."Line 10Delete the words "in recent years."*

Cholera*Line 28*

Before the sentence beginning with "the severest . . ." add the sentences "There was a decrease in the following decade between 1911 to 1920 when the average was roughly 1,617. But there was again an increase during the years between 1921 to 1930 when the average was about 2,109 annually."

Read "visitations" for "visitation" and add "however" after it.

Add "1910, 1918 and 1924" after "1906."

Add "1910" between the words "deaths" and "being."

Line 29

Read "11,935" for "7,184."

After the end of the paragraph add "The best years on record were 1932 and 1933 with 310 and 41 deaths respectively. The ratio in 1932 was 20 per thousand, while the mean ratio for five years preceding was 1 18."

Smallpox*Page 26, lines 1 to 7*

Delete the two sentences beginning with "from" and ending in the seventh line with the word "37" and substitute "from 1901, however, the progress of this disease was well under control up to 1907. In 1908 and 1909 there was a serious epidemic and the total loss of life was 4,482. The mortality in 1919 (706), 1920 (1,091), 1927 (1,027) and 1933 (893) has also been abnormal. Mau was one of the worst affected places in the province in 1932."

Lines 15, 17 and 18

Delete the clause "and the immunity . . . to it" and read "In 1932-33 consisted of" in place of "consists."

Line 19

Read " 25 " for " 23 " and delete ' maintained in 1908. "

Line 20

Read " Rs.10,225 " for " Rs 2,875 "

Lines 20 to 22

Delete the words "distributed between . . ." up to the end of the sentence and add "Out of this Rs 9,846 was incurred by local funds (D. B and N. A) and Rs.379 from the Municipality. The average cost of each successful vaccination was Rs.8.11."

Other diseases

Line 30

Add the following sentences before the sentence beginning with "All the usual . . ." ' The average death-rate between 1911—20 was again abnormally high, being 13,388, but there was a marked decrease in the decade between 1921 to 1930 when the average went down to 6,959. The best year on record since 1902 was the year 1933 with 479 deaths."

Page 27, line 2

At the end of the paragraph add the following fresh paragraph

District Health Scheme

"A Health Scheme was started in the district in April 1923. There is a District Medical Officer of Health with one Assistant and six Sanitary Inspectors (one for each tahsil) and the entire vaccinating staff, which was formerly controlled by the Civil Surgeon and the Azamgarh Municipality. This officer has been educating the general rural public by means of lectures, magic lanterns and distribution of leaflets the importance of sanitation and the means of preventing the spread of epidemic diseases. The patwaris have to report immediately the appearance of an epidemic disease. The hygiene publicity propaganda includes, among other things, the training of boys in Vernacular Schools in personal Hygiene, such as the importance of keeping the clothings clean, washing the teeth carefully, and so on. This propaganda has been carried on in fairs, bazars and in villages. Short and simple lectures have been given to village Chamarins and Dais on maternity and child welfare and there has been a regular distribution of medicines for ordinary diseases such as cough, diarrhoea, malarial fever, and so on. Attention has also been paid to the improvement of sanitation in rural areas, town areas, notified areas, and sanitary villages, although there is still much to be done in this direction. Prompt preventive measures have been taken to check the spread of epidemics by permanganation of wells, inoculations and vaccinations. On the whole the scheme has been working here very satisfactorily."

AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE

Cultivated areas

Add the following after the sentence ending with series :

" There have been minor variations in the area of the district, since, owing particularly to the fluvial action of the Gogra river in tahsils Sagri and Ghosi. The total area in 1340 Fash was 1,415,503—the cultivated area being 927,888 acres."

CHAPTER III

THE PEOPLE

Census of 1901

Page 72, line 29

In the beginning of the paragraph read "The census of 1901" for "The last census."

Page 73, line 20

Add three new paragraphs after the census of 1901 as below

"Census of 1911

(See volume B).

Census of 1921

Better results were however obtained at the census of 1921 when the number of persons was recorded as 1,571,577 showing an increase of 35,839—the male population being 776 269 and female going down to 752,388.

Census of 1931

In 1931 the population rose to 1,571,577, the mean density per square mile being 710, but the district had one of the smallest increase in the province and the variations throughout the tahsils were very uneven. Ahraula Tahsil recorded an actual decrease; while Deogaon and Sagri tahsils with comparatively lower density showed but small increase Ghosi tahsil, on the other hand, showed an increase above the provincial average. The district population now stands 31 per cent lower than it did 50 years ago owing to the effect of the famine of 1896-97 and heavy mortality from plague in the decade 1901—11 and since. It is 5th. in order of magnitude in population in the province—the four districts with higher population being Gorakhpur, Basti, Meerut and Gonda. The district density of 710 was however below the divisional average—both including and excluding towns. The population is spread fairly evenly over the tahsils, though the density is lower in tahsil Deogaon on account of its large barren areas which include usar plains, swamps and jhils and higher in tahsil Nizamabad on account of its high urban population and greater fertility."

Migration

At the end of the paragraph add the following :

" During the census of 1931 it was found that immigrants decreased from 3·8 to 3·1 per cent. of the population since 1921, the actual number having declined by 17·0 per cent. According to the vital statistics there would appear to be a gain on the balance of migration of 1,000 persons in the decade but the record especially in respect of births is evidently very incomplete and allowing for this the district has probably lost 40,000 on the balance of migration during the period as emigration declined towards the end of the decade on account of trade depression."

Towns and villages

Line 20

Read "5.4" for "5.9",

Lines 25—30

Delete the sentences beginning with "The largest" and ending in "Maharajganj" in the 30th line and substitute the following "In 1921 there were 5,132 towns and villages while in 1931 their number was 5,610. Of these only 4,865 villages and towns were inhabited in 1931, 3,992 towns and villages had a population under 500, 644 between 500 and 1,000; 182 between 1,000 and 2,000, 42 between 2,000 and 5,000, two between 5,000 and 10,000, two between 10,000 and 20,000 and one between 20,000 and 50,000. There are altogether 13 towns in the district. Mau ranks as the largest with a population of 21,354—Azamgarh comes next with 18,046 followed by Mubarakpur (12,493), Muhammadabad (7,783), and Kopaganj (6,716) Amila, Sarai-Mir, Dohrighat, Mehnagar, Phulpur, Atraulia, Maharajganj and Nizamabad are the remaining towns of the district."

Line 32

Read "264.91" for "306.17", and delete the remaining sentence from "excluding... average."

Sex

Delete the whole of the paragraph beginning with the word "This preponderance.." up to the end of the page and substitute the following:

"In 1921 there were 776,269 males and 752,388 females while in 1931 the former were enumerated as 797,960 and the latter as 773,617. There has been a steady decrease in the sex-relation for the last three enumerations of 1911, 1921 and 1931 when the number of females per 1,000 males was recorded respectively as 991, 969 and 969. This is rather surprising inasmuch as there had been continuous increase of the proportion of females to males during the 3 enumerations of 1872, 1881 and 1901. This is assigned to the lower birth rates of females during the last 3 decades and to the high rates of female mortality during 1904, 1905, 1916 and 1917 due probably to their increased liability to plague—particularly in the case of those strictly confined inside their homes by reason of the purdah system.”

Insert the following before the sentence “The proportion of per cent.” “In 1921 there were 1,344,339 Brahmanic Hindus, 668 Arya Hindus; 139 Sikhs; 183,394 Muslims and 117 Christians, while in 1931 there was a general increase among all religions. Brahmanic Hindus 1,376,854, Arya Hindus 3,776, Sikhs 166; Muslims 191,505 and Christians numbering 236.”

A division was made into four classes of persons engaged in the (a) production of raw materials, (b) preparation and supply of material substances, (c) Public administration and liberal arts and (d) Miscellaneous. In the first class were included all persons engaged in the exploitation of animals and vegetation and of minerals. All persons who actually derived income from rent of agricultural lands and were engaged in ordinary cultivation, agents and managers of landed estates: rent collectors, farm servants; field labourers; wood cutters; cattle and buffalo-breeders, herdmen, shepherds, goatherds and persons engaged in fishing and hunting were classed as exploiters of animals and vegetation and formed by far the greatest proportion of the population of the district numbering 744,209. Ordinary cultivators were the most predominant being 717,471. 146 persons who were actually engaged in the extraction of saltpetre and such other mineral substances were classified as exploiters of minerals. Industry, transport and trade were the three main occupations of people engaged in preparation and supply of material substances. Industry occupied 70,323 persons, transport 1,631 and trade 20,727. Cotton sizing and weaving was the principal textile industry which engaged 21,194 persons. Other forms of industry were making of wood articles, metal wares, ceramics such as pottery, chemical products (chiefly manufacture and refining of vegetable oils), food-industries such as grain-parching, rice pounding, tailoring, shoemaking, washing and jewellery making and gilding. Owners and beaters of boats, elephant, camels, mules, asses, palis and other vehicles were classed under transport and money-lenders, pierce-good sellers, sweet-meat and fire wood dealers, etc., were assigned to trade. No serious attempt was made in 1921 to investigate fully into the subsidiary occupations of the people and the inquiry was then confined to collecting data of partially agriculturist population only. In 1931 a division was made of each person following each occupation as (1) principal occupation and as (2) subsidiary to any other occupation. A further sub-division was made of the former into those (a) with no subsidiary occupation, (b) with an agricultural subsidiary occupation and (c) with a non-agricultural occupation. 435,564 persons were classed as earners with no subsidiary occupation under exploitation of animals and vegetation of which 434,833 were engaged in pasture and agriculture. 79,242 persons of this class had an agricultural subsidiary occupation, 38,914 a non-agricultural subsidiary occupation and 105,586 followed this occupation as subsidiary to other occupations. 79,568 persons were engaged in the preparation and supply of material substances, 16,857 in an agricultural subsidiary occupation, 2,855 in a non-agricultural subsidiary occupation and 26,730 following this work as subsidiary to other occupations. Textile industry occupied 16,982 persons with no subsidiary occupation, 1,305 with an agricultural subsidiary occupation, 175 with a non-agricultural subsidiary occupation and 1,156 persons adopted this business as subsidiary to other occupations; while cotton sizing, spinning and weaving occupied 14,773, 1,059; 153 and 527 persons of the four classes mentioned above respectively. Transport engaged 1,692; 474; 80 and 1,223; Trade 23,662, 3,546; 1,000 and 7,303; Public Administration and liberal arts 4,429, 1,156 78 and 3,287 and Miscellaneous consisted of 19,901 persons with no other subsidiary occupation than begging, domestic service, etc.; 4,079 with an agricultural subsidiary occupation, 859 with a non-agricultural subsidiary occupation and 8,480 following this as subsidiary to other occupations.

"At the census of 1931 by far the greatest number of people in the district spoke Hindustani. Other languages used were the Punjabi, the Bengali and the Rajasthani (Marwari)—but they were almost negligible."

"Nothing is known of the literature of this district before the Moghul period. Raja Azam Khan, the founder of Azamgarh, (1665 A.D.) had in his court the Hindi poet Sabhachand, the author of "Kali-Uharitra". His successors Azmat Khan and Mahabat Khan (A.D. 1688 to A.D. 1730) patronised Baldeo Misra another Hindi poet, who composed beautiful verses in Hindi in praise of Azmat Khan and in Sanskrit about the valour of Mahabat Khan. His nephew Harjoo Misra adorned the court of Azam Khan II (A.D. 1764 to A.D. 1771). Raja Azam Khan II was himself a poet and composed the poetical work called "Sugur Darpan". His court-poet Harjoo Misra is known for his "Amarkosh" and "Azamkhani Satsai" in Hindi. Besides these court minstrels, there lived Noor Muhammad, a great poet of the Old Suphi School of Hindi poetry, at village Surahan (Tahsil Phulpur) in or about A. D. 1743. His famous allegory "Indiawati" describes the love story of Rajkunwar, the Rajkumar of Kalinjar and Rajkumari Indrawati of Azampur. The light of the Delhi School, the home of Urdu language, reached Azamgarh a bit late and the first Urdu poet of any importance is Maulana Farooq of Chinnakot. His disciple Shibli Nomanî was the marvel of his time. Born in 1857 at Bindwal, Shibli worked as a professor of Persian in Aligarh College. He wrote on the past glories of Islam on a new line and introduced modern principles of criticism in Urdu literature. He was a prolific writer. Some of his important works are Sirat-un-Nabi, Alfarooq, Al Mamoon Sherul-Ajam, Moazina Anis-o-Dabir, Seera-tun-Numan and Al Kalam. His prose is notable for its ease and simplicity. He has been called the saviour of Nadwatul-Ulmi at Lucknow for which he worked for several years. The Darul-Musanadin and the Shibli George High School at Azamgarh owe their existence to him. The former is doing creditable work under the guidance of Sayyid Sulaiman Nadwi and Muhammad Abdul Salam Nadwi for Urdu literature. Its organ "The Maarif" is devoted to the study of Islamic culture and religion and occupies a prominent place among monthly magazines. M. Iqbal Ahmad Khan, M. A., otherwise known as "Sohail", a disciple of Maulana Shibli, is a studious scholar and poet of Urdu and Persian. Moulvi Mohammad Mobin of Chinnakot, the village of Maulana Farooq, has recently produced a beautiful collection of representative Urdu poetry which has been published by the Hindustani Academy, Allahabad.

Modern Hindi literature has also made considerable progress in Azamgarh. Pandit Ayodhya Singh Upadhyaya, one of the greatest living poets of Hindi, belongs to this place. Pandit Ayodhya Singh was for a long time Sadai Qanungo at Azamgarh and developed a love for poetry under the inspiration of a Sikh Sadhu of Nizamabad, Baba Sumer Singh. He later on wrote his monumental poetical work "the Priya Pravas" in Khariboli on the early life of Lord Krishna. His other books such as "Bol Chal", "Chubhate Chaupade" "Padya-prasoon" and others are regarded as master-pieces of modern Hindi poetry. He is at present working as a lecturer at the Benares Hindu University and is writing a great socio-philosophical poem "the Swarga-sangita" Pandit Ramcharit Upadhyaya, a writer of modern prose, is also a resident of this district. Pandit Dayashankar Misra, a descendant of Harjoo Misra, the court poet of Raja Azam Khan II, has in his possession a mass of Hindi poetry composed by his predecessors and is himself a poet. It is time that these pieces of old poetry be now published. Two Hindi weekly papers, the Sewak and the Sandesh, are published at Azamgarh. The former is printed at the Viswanath Printing Press and the latter at the Prabhat printing works which have recently been established in the city. The Sandesh promises to be a good literary organ

The Raja of Azamgarh

Line 23

The account of this family requires slight changes in the light of certain new facts brought to our notice. The following notes should be substituted in place of the existing one: "There is only one Raja in the district but his property is incommensurate with his title. Raja Muhammad Khan (generally known as Raja Mohammad Shah), the present holder of the title, is the nephew of the late Raja Muhammad Salamat Khan who died without a son on the 3rd of April, 1912. The family claims descent from the Gautam Rajput dynasty of the Rajas of Aargal (Fatehpur District). Raja Harbaran Deo of Aargal fought against Humayun and espoused the cause of Sher Shah, with the result that his grandson Raja Bhanno Sah Deo was severely defeated by Akbar at Kalpi. The Rajas of Azamgarh, have descended from one Chandrasen Singh of Menhnagar who lived in the time of Akbar. The legend is that this Chandrasen, was younger brother of Raja Bhanno Sah Deo and that he left Aargal after the battle of Kalpi for Menhnagar. Chandrasen had two sons, Sagari and Abhiman. Chandrasen himself is not mentioned in the historical records of his time, but Abhiman Singh appears to have secured for himself a fairly large estate round Menhnagar. The story of his rise to power is not fully known to us. According to one legend he became a Musalman under the name of Daulat Khan and rose to a high position from a eunuch of the court in the personal service of the Emperor Jehangir. He is said to have acquired a large amount of wealth and landed property which he bequeathed to his nephew Harbars Singh. The present Raja on the other-hand claims that there is absolutely no proof of Abhiman Singh entering the service as a eunuch and that all that is known about him is that in lieu of his embracing Islam and "considering his high pedigree" the Emperor bestowed on him a Royal Farman in the 4th year of his reign (A.D. 1609) conferring on him the title of Raja Daulat Khan together with a grant of 22 Perganas which included the greatest part of the district of Azamgarh and an allowance of Rs. 1,25,000 per annum for ever. The original Farman (the Altumgha Sanad) was examined by Mr. W. T. Robertson, Joint Magistrate of Azamgarh, in 1826 in pursuance of an order from the Secretary to Government in the Political Department and a copy of it was forwarded to Fort Williams by him. Mr. Thomson, the 5th Settlement Officer of this district, also examined the Sanad in 1837. He has doubted its authenticity but he had no doubt that some such Sanad was given. As the Farman may be of some interest, it is reproduced below with its English translation by Mr. Thomson.

English Translation

It has happened in this propitious time that Abhiman Singh, zamindar of Menhnagar in Nizamabad, has embraced Islamism and been honoured with the title of Raja Nadir Daulat Khan. We have, therefore, bestowed upon him 22 pergunas in Suba Allahabad from the commencement of the Khureef Crop, and according to the specification below, our illustrious sons, and rulers of the provinces, and Mootsuddies must ever use their strongest endeavour perpetually to maintain this grant, and confirm the Zemindaree of the above pergunahs to the aforementioned person, and his descendants, for ever. They will deduct rupees 1,25,000, as his Nankar from the total Jumma payable to the Government, in order that he may spend it, and the fixed allowance per village and percentage in the Jumma and other Zemindary dues for his support. This Sunnud will not require renewal. Dated Rubee-ool-Akhir 15th in the 4th year of the reign.

The phrase "Nazar-bar-Istehqaq" (considering his rights) appearing in the Farman quoted above does tend to show that the honour was bestowed to Daulat Khan on account of his deserts. This Daulat Khan has been confused with Khwajah Daulat Khan of Badauni, the historian of Akbar. Badauni died in A.D. 1595 (Muntakhab-ut-tawarikh). It is, therefore, certain that Daulat Khan of Jehangir's Farman was different from Khwajah Daulat Khan of Akbar's time "who rose from a subordinate position to one of influence at the Imperial Court". Daulat Khan of Jehangir is neither mentioned as a Khwajah in the Farman nor in Tuzk-i-Jehangiri where his name again occurs as Faujdar of Jaunpore and Suba Allahabad. Daulat Khan later on became a Faujdar of Jaunpore and Allahabad in the 7th year of the reign of Jehangir (A.D. 1612). He had no children but Sagar his brother had five sons, Harbans, Dayal, Gopal, Jai Narayan and Kharak. The date of his death is not known. His tomb lies in Menh-nagar. He had bequeathed his property upon Harbans. Harbans had two sons, Gambhir and Dharnidhar. Gambhir succeeded Harbans, but he left no issue. He was succeeded by his brother Dharnidhar who had three sons, Bikarmajit, Narayan and Rudra. Bikarmajit succeeded him. He killed Rudra and resumed his personal Guzara property. Bhawani Devi, the widow of Rudra, complained of this to the authorities with the result that Bikarmajit Singh was killed by the Imperial Forces and his estate was made over to the widow, Rani Bhawani. Bikarmajit had embraced Islam and had two sons Azam Khan and Azmat Khan from a Mohammedan wife. Azam Khan was given the reigns of Government on coming of age by the Rani and he founded the town of Azamgarh in A.D. 1665. The famous poet Sabha Chandra, the writer of Kali Charitra, flourished in his reign. He left no son and was succeeded by his brother Azmat Khan who founded Azmatgarh. He was also a lover of poetry. Baldeo Misra was the principal poet of his court and accompanied him in battles. Azmat Khan lost his life in 1688 while resisting the Imperial authorities on account of arrears of revenue. Azam Khan and Azmat Khan both largely increased their territories. Azmat had four sons, Ekram, Mahabat, Sardar and Naubat. He was succeeded by the eldest son, Ekram Khan had no child and was succeeded by his brother Mahabat Khan. During the rule of Mahabat Khan the prosperity of the Rajas of Azamgarh was at its zenith. The most eastern of his forts was at Madhuban (pergana Ghosi) and the most western at Gohnaipur (pergana Atraulia) and his territories extended from the Ghaghra to the Ganges from north to south. He loved Sanskrit poetry and among his principal poets may be mentioned the name of Baldeo Misra who wrote poetry both in Sanskrit and Hindi. Like his father Azmat was also a revenue defaulter. Nawab Sa'adat Ali Khan personally came to Azamgarh to collect the revenue. A fight took place in which Mahabat was defeated. He was imprisoned at Gorakhpur where he died in 1731. He had four sons, Iradat, Sufi Bahadur, Jahangir and Husain and was succeeded by his eldest son, Iradat Khan did not recognize the dominance of the Imperial court at Delhi and helped Ahmad Khan Bangash against Safdar Jang, the Emperor's Wazir. In 1756 he had become too feeble to reign and was forced to resign in favour of his son Jehan Khan. After Iradat's death Jehan's cousin Azam Khan, son of Jahangir, became turbulent. He was driven out and took refuge in Jaunpore. Jehan Khan also fell into arrears of land revenue and in A.D. 1761 a fight took place between him and an agent of the Wazir at Nizambad where both were killed. His territory was transferred to Fazal Ali, Governor of Dinazpur, who held it for three years. For a time the estate remained without a head but after the defeat of Shuja-uddaula at Panipat, Azam Khan, son of Jehangir, obtained possession and continued to rule the same till his death in 1771. This Azam Khan was a very great lover of Hindi poetry. He was himself the author of Singar-Darpan and his poet Harjoo Misra wrote two remarkable books, Azam Khani Satsai and Amar Koth. His brother Jehanyar Khan conferred a Muafi grant of 52 bigahs of land on Harjoo Misra in 1179 Fashi which corresponds to the year 1771. It is likely that this Jehanyar Khan died a few months after his brother's death. Both were succeeded by Illich Khan the Nawab's minister and the territory was termed as chakla Azamgarh was assigned to him as Chakladar. From 1772 to 1801 the territory was ruled by nine Chakladars in succession. It was during this time the eldest widow of Jehan Khan, Rani Nirhi, married Nadir Khan as the son of her late husband by whom she and Nadir, however, were unable to manage the territory. They were put under restraint by the Chakladar but escaped to British Territory and took up their residence there. Nadir then proceeded to adopt a lawless mode of life and committed raids into the Chakla by way of harassing the Chakladars but he was ultimately bribed to order about 1790 by the Chakladar Bhawani Prasad who assigned the revenue of certain villages for his support. The Nawab's Government does not appear to have recognized Nadir Khan as a Raja. But shortly after the cession a pension of Rs.150 a month was granted to him by the British Government, in addition to the revenue of 12 villages. The pension was subsequently raised to Rs.300 a month. He died in 1826 when the pension ceased. His family, however, continued in possession of the assigned villages and his son and successor Mobarak Khan was recognized as Raja. At the 5th settlement the assigned villages were resumed and Rudra. Bikarmajit succeeded him. He killed Rudra and resumed his personal Guzara property. Bhawani Devi, the widow of Rudra, complained of this to the authorities with the result that Bikarmajit Singh was killed by the Imperial Forces and his estate was made over to the widow, Rani Bhawani. Jehan Khan also fell into arrears of land revenue and in A.D. 1761 a fight took place between him and an agent of the Wazir at Nizambad where both were killed. His territory was transferred to Fazul Ali, Governor of Ghazipur, who held it for three years. For a time the estate remained without a head but after the defeat of Shuja-uddaula at Buxar Azam Khan, son of Jehangir, obtained possession and continued to hold the same till his death in 1771. This Azam Khan (2nd) was a great lover of Hindi poetry. He was himself the writer of Singari-Darpan and his poet Harjoo Misra wrote two remarkable books, Azam Khani Satsai and Amai Kosh. His brother Jehanyar Khan conferred a Muafi grant of 52 bighas of land on Harjoo Misra in 1179 Fashi which corresponds with the year 1771. It is likely that this Jehanyar Khan also reigned for a few months after his brother's death. But he was soon expelled by Illich Khan the Nawab's minister and the territory which was termed as chakla Azamgarh was consigned to the care of a Chakladar. From 1772 to 1801 the territory was administered by nine Chakladars in succession. It was during this period that the eldest widow of Jehan Khan Rani Nihai, put forward one Nadir Khan as the son of her late husband by another wife. She and Nadir, however, were unable to manage the property. They were put under restraint by the Chakladar but escaped to British Territory and took up their residence there. Nadir then proceeded to adopt a lawless mode of life and committed raids into the Chakla by way of harassing the officials but he was ultimately bribed to order about 1790 by the Chakladar Blawani Prasad who assigned the revenue of certain villages for his support. But shortly after the cession a pension of Rs.150 a month was granted to him by the British Government, in addition to the revenue of 12 villages. The pension was subsequently raised to Rs 300 a month. He died in 1826 when the pension ceased. His family, however, continued in possession of the assigned villages and his son and successor Mobarak Khan was permitted to call himself a Raja. At the 5th settlement the villages were resumed and were brought upon the District Rent Roll and settled regularly with the proprietors; but half the revenue was appropriated in the form of monthly pension payable to certain members of Nadir's family. Mobarak Khan died in 1858. He had six sons, Salamat Khan, Gauhar Khan, Raza Khan, Qadir Khan, Khaliq Khan and Karim Khan. The eldest, Salamat Khan, succeeded his father. During the days of the Mutiny of 1857 Salamat Khan "assisted in preserving order in the City. He was entrusted with the management of the district on being quitted by the officers. He kept mail communication open, and saved the town from general plunder when the Pulliwars took possession of it." For this he was awarded a Khillut of Rs 500. Though generally acknowledged, validity of the claim to the title of Raja was not formerly decided until 1866 when in G. O. no. 112A of 1866 the Government recognized the hereditary title of Raja of this family. In 1873, 5,000 acres of land in Gorakhpur District was added to his estate. He was appointed an Honorary Magistrate in 1875. His services during the riots of 1893 and floods of 1894 and other public services were recognized by the Government by awarding him a Qaisar-i-Hind medal besides a number of Sanads and Certificates. He died on 3rd April, 1912. He had no issue but he had adopted his nephew Mohammad Shah, son of Khaliq Khan, as his successor during his life-time, who succeeded him. Raja Mohammad Shah is an Honorary Magistrate and worked as a Municipal Commissioner till 1931. He has rendered appreciable help to Government during the war and to the Anti-Revolutionary League. He has one son, Kunwar Mohammad Azam Khan, who has been approved as his successor by the Government.

The Raja of Jaunpur

The account given in the C volume may be adopted in full with the following addition in the end :

"Raja Sri Kishan Dat Dube lives at Jaunpur. His affairs in this district are managed by his officials. The estate is in fairly good order."

Rani Dhandei Kuar

The sentence "The annual revenue is Rs.10,872" may be deleted and the following additions made at the end of the paragraph about Rani Dhandei Kuar in C volume :

"She has the second largest estate in the district paying Rs.22,000 as land revenue. Her husband, the late Babu Durga Prasad, did appreciable services in Gorakhpur during the famine of 1877 and was a Special Magistrate. Rani Dhandei Kuar has started a poor house at Matna in Gorakhpur District, but has done nothing like this so far in Azamgarh."

The Estate of Mittupur

The Hon'ble Raja Syed Abu Jafar, K.C.I.E., of Pirpur died on the 16th February, 1927. Hence, the following note should be substituted for that given in the C volume

"The Estate of Mittupur, tahsil Phulpur, with a revenue of Rs.10,385 is now held by Raja Syed Mohammad Mahdi, M.L.C., Taluqdar of Pirpur, district Fyzabad. He has a beautiful residential house at Mittupur; but he does not generally live there. The estate is in flourishing condition"

Rasulpur Estate

Babu Tripura Prasad Narain Sinha, whose account has appeared in the C volume, has died. Hence, the following note should be substituted :

"The estate is in the management of the Court of Wards. Babu Bhuwaneshwari Prasad Narain Singh has succeeded his father Babu Tripura Prasad Narain Sinha. He has considerable property in other districts in the United Provinces and the province of Bihar. The present revenue demand of his estate is Rs.16,890 and is one of the largest in the district. The property was originally in possession of Babu Mangala Prasad Narain Sinha, Bhumihar, the great grandfather of the present proprietor—the state having been considerably added to by his descendant"

Athwaria Estate

The account given in the C volume may be adopted in full.

Other Landholders

Page 111

The account given in the C volume may be adopted with the following alterations which have since taken place.

1. Sidharu Babus

Stop after 'The estate of the elder branch was taken under the management of the Court of Wards' and proceed as follows:

"It was released in 1918 and returned to the owners almost in its original condition, free from all encumbrances. Soon after the release it was divided among the four descendants of the elder branch. Considerable property of the younger branch also was sold in order to pay off debts and the remainder was subsequently divided among three descendants of that branch. For its loyal services in the Mutiny the family received a Sword of honour. The eldest member of the family has been included in the list of Darbaris and is an exemptee under the Arms Act. Many Hindu customs are still prevalent in this family and marriages are strictly confined to Muslim-Rajputs only."

2. Syed Mahdi Hasan

Add "He is a second class Honorary Magistrate and Assistant Collector" after Syed Mehdi Hasan.

3. Babu Harakh Chand and Rai Bahadur Babu

Mukund Lal.

For "Beni Prasad Bania" read "Beni Prasad Agarwala" and substitute the following short notes about Babu Harakh Chand and Rai Bahadur Babu Makund Lal for the accounts given in volume C.

"Babu Harakh Chand pays Rs.19,255 as land revenue in this district and has considerable property in Ballia, Gorakhpur, Gonda, Benares, Allahabad, and Arrah (Bihar). He has large interests in trade and money-lending and has worked creditably as a Special Magistrate for several years. He has been always loyal to Government. He and his brother Rai Bahadur Babu Makund Lal have together contributed the munificent sum of Rs. 2½ lakhs to the War Loan and supplied many recruits. He has also made handsome donations towards the Anti-revolutionary league and the recent Viceroy's Flood Relief Fund. His newly-built three-storeyed house which stands in the heart of the city is equipped with electricity. He has erected a dharamshala near the railway station of Azamgarh where he maintains a beautiful garden. He is the Government Treasurer of Azamgarh and Basti. Rai Bahadur Babu Makund Lal, the younger brother of Babu Harakh Chand, pays Rs 14,177 as land revenue in this district and owns large estate in Gorakhpur and Gonda. The firm of Azmatgarh (in Azamgarh) and Barhalganj (in Gorakhpur) were allotted to him during the family partition and he has extensive business in these places. Like his brother he has also made handsome donations towards the Anti-revolutionary league and the Viceroy's Flood Relief Fund and has always been loyal to Government. For several years he was a Special Magistrate. He is a man of culture and has written "Krishi-Kaumudi" in Hindi besides a short selection from the Ramayan. He and his brother Babu Harakh Chand have together established a High School at Azmatgarh. The Sanskrit Pathshala, the Primary School for girls and the public library at Azmatgarh owe their existence to Babu Makund Lal. A charitable dispensary has recently been started by him with a nominal help from the district board. His residential house at Azmatgarh is equipped with electricity and magnificent gardens. His son Babu Shashi Bhushan Gupta is a Special Magistrate."

4. The Zamindars of Bharauli

The names of the two widows of Babu Harbans Deo Narain Singh are Musammat Zamira Kuar and Musammat Chandrawati Kuar. This fact may be inserted in the account appearing in C volume

European Proprietors

1. Kajha Estate

No alteration is necessary in the account given in C volume which may be adopted.

2. Khorason Estate

The estate is held by Mr. T. A. Martin, a son of the original grantee, and his nephew Mr. T. S. S. Martin, grandson of the original grantee. With this modification the account given in C volume may be accepted.

3. Dubara Estate

No change in the account appearing in C volume is necessary except that this estate should be classed under the head

"Other landholders" and not under "European Proprietors."

4. Mr. H. T. Dodsworth

"Mr. H. T. Dodsworth's two sons Oswald Dodsworth and Owen Dodsworth are looking after the property; but it is in poor condition." This may be added at the end of the account of this estate given in C volume.

5 Mr. E. Barber

The following may be substituted for the account given in C volume.

"Mr. E. Barber who was the proprietor of an estate at Pachhimpatti died in 1927. The surviving proprietors have left India and gone to England and Africa. The estate is now under the administration of the Administrator General and is managed through the Collector. It is in fairly good condition."

At the end of the paragraph add.

"The emigration which is mostly to Bihar and Orissa, Assam and Bengal has declined during recent years on account of trade depression having decreased from 3.8 to 3.1 per cent. of the population during the years 1921 to 1931 the actual number having declined by 17.0 per cent. The decline was more perceptible towards the end of the decade than during the preceding years. The remittances of money have continuously decreased from Rs 38,04,300 in 1929 to Rs.31,81,000 in 1930 and from Rs.2,73,23,000 in 1931 to Rs.24,45,020 in 1932. The economic condition of the people cannot therefore be said to have improved. It has on the other hand definitely deteriorated on account of the continued slump; though it is not so acute here as in some other districts owing to the continuous support from the emigrants.

CHAPTER IV

REVENUE AND ADMINISTRATION

Delete the entire paragraph after the first sentence and re-write as follows "The sanctioned magisterial and revenue staff consists of six Sub-divisional officers and one Treasury Officer. There are at present eight officers—one Joint Magistrate and seven Deputy Collectors—with first class magisterial and revenue powers on the staff. In addition, there are six Tahsildars who exercise second or third class criminal and second class revenue powers in their respective tahsils. The district has 11 Honorary and Special Magistrates (seven with second class powers and four with third class), nine Honorary Assistant Collectors (two with first class and seven with second class) and a second class Bench at Sadar consisting of Raja Mouammad Shah and Dabu Suraj Kumar Singh. For purposes of civil jurisdiction the district comprises the judgeship of Azamgarh with one Sub-Judge and three Munsifs (City Munsif, Munsif Haveli and Munsif Muhammadabad) with jurisdictions in (i) Tahsil Nizamabad and Parganas Atraulia and Qariat Mitthu, (ii) Tahsil Deogaon and Parganas Mahul, Gopalpur Kauria and Chiriyakot, and (iii) Parganas Muhammadabad, Mau Nath Bhanjan, Sagri, Ghosi and Nathupur. The present staff consists of one Sub-Judge and two Munsifs in addition to the sanctioned strength. They are all stationed at Azamgarh. Other officers of note with their headquarters at Sadar are the Superintendent of Police, the Civil Surgeon, the Income-Tax Officer, the District Medical Officer of Health, the Medical Officer in charge of Sadar Dispensary, and the Deputy Superintendent of Police. The names of Thakur Kalipnath Singh, Chairman of the District Board and Thakur Suraj Kumar Singh, Chairman of the Municipal Board, may also be mentioned as heads of the two local bodies Besides the post office there are offices of the Departments of Agriculture and Public Works which are controlled by subordinate officials of these departments.

Sub-divisions

Line 31

Add the following in the beginning of the paragraph .

"The tahsils in the district were, for long time, five in number, viz. Azamgarh, Muhammadabad, Ahraula, Deogaon, and Sagri. In 1914 the new tahsil of Ghosi was created out of parganas of Ghosi and Nathupur of Tahsil Sagri and two tappas from pargana Muhammadabad."

Read "Phulpur" for "tahsil Ahraula or Mahul."

Financial results

Delete the whole sentence "In a number . . . of the assessments" and substitute the following :

"The total demand in 1932-33 was Rs.19,52,838-5-1. This represented the revenue of the villages transferred from Gopalpur in 1904 as well as that of the permanent Mahals. Out of this Rs.16,98,208-10-11 only were realized, leaving a balance of Rs.2,54,629-10-2 which was made up of sums remitted by the Commissioner or the Government. The last figure included Rs.9,532-13 remitted owing to the damage caused to crops by shortage of rains and Rs 2,43,772-8 owing to general economic depression. The incidence per acre of the cultivated area was highest in pargana Bela Daulatabad (2'34) and lowest in Nathupur (1 6)."

Rates

Add the following in the end of the paragraph .

"During 1932-33 the demand under local rates amounted to Rs.1,90,350-8. Out of this a sum of Rs 1,90,327-9 was realized leaving the nominal balance of Rs.22-15-8 which consisted of items remitted by the Commissioner or the Government. The demand on account of acreage rate amounted to Rs.6,093-10-2 of which Rs 6 791-7-2 were realized—the remainder having been remitted by the Commissioner or Government. The demand on road cess was also fully realized."

Police stations

Delete lines 5 to 28 beginning with the word "of the outposts . . ." to the end of the paragraph, and substitute the following:

Mehnagar Didarganj, Sagri and Jehanaganj have been abolished and new police stations have been established at Jianpur in Sagri Tahsil and at Mubarakpur in Muhammadabad Under G. O. no. 1002/VIII—571, dated the 13th February, 1926, nine villages of police station Jahangirganj of Fyzabad district were transferred to Azamgarh for police purposes. Oril (1,850 persons) and Mohiuddinpur (174) were allotted to Pawai; Ramupur (1,112), Chakia (16), Chak Karta (4), Chak Dulha and Chuk Dulhin, the last two being uninhabited, to Saraimir and Deodih (uninhabited) to Atraulia. In 1932 there was again a territorial arrangement. The villages of Lodhapur, Phulpur, Serai Hardu, Arman, Basantpatti, Bahangaha Jogipur, Gohnarpur, Lakhanipatti, Ramanpur, Kishnapur, Baharpur, Harpur, Rudauli Mafi, and Rudauli Adali were transferred from the Parganas of Atraulia and Mahul of Azamgarh to Fyzabad by the Local Government in exercise of the powers conferred by section 7 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1908 [vide G. O. no. 1706/VI—1580-1931, dated February 5, 1932, as amended by G. O. no. 1724—1580-1931, dated September 8, 1932]. There are at present two rural outposts at Didarganj and Kopaganj each under a Sub-Inspector and eight Watch and Ward outposts one at Mubarakpur, two in Mau, one in Muhammadabad, one in Saraimir, and three in Azamgarh town. There is also a Sub-Inspector at the railway station of Mau. The population in the jurisdiction of Mau is highest being 105,746; while that in Mubarakpur is lowest being 58,270."

Line 4

Insert the following sentence after the sentence ending with sale.

"The ordinary distillery system was also subsequently abolished. The country spirit consumed in Azamgarh is now supplied from the Indian Distillery Cawnpore. There are two bonded warehouses in the district—one at Azamgarh and the other at Ghosi. The authorized shops are annually put to auction and sold to the highest bidder. The licensed vendors get their supplies from the warehouses on payment of cost price and duty. Spirits of two strengths 35° and 50° U. P. are issued."

Line 31

Add the following at the end of the paragraph

"In 1933 the shops were only 62 in number and the consumption had fallen down to 11,398 gallons—the average consumption for the ten years preceding it being 9,624 gallons only. The receipt from foreign liquors was only Rs.130 and that from country liquor was Rs.64,981. This marks a substantial decrease of the revenue derived from spirit by Government and indicates its sincere desire to promote the cause of temperance. The reduced consumption of licit liquor, brought about by the restrictive policy of Government has, however, been considerably supplemented by illicit distillation and smuggling."

Line 12

At the end of the paragraph add :

“The present constitution of the Board consists of 4 Muslims and 6 non-Muslims including one member of the depressed class. Of the 3 nominated members one is a lady and one from the depressed class. There are 26 mohallas in the city. It contains only one ward which is divided between Muslim and non-Muslim constituencies. There was a keen contest during the last elections when 630 persons actually voted out of 653 qualified electors. Thirteen octroi posts have been established since 1st October, 1931, and the total income in 1932-33 amounted to Rs.58,196 while expenditure was Rs.56,084 only. The Board has been making considerable improvement since 1930-31 when it was drifting towards complete bankruptcy."

Notified Areas

Line 13

Delete the entire paragraph and substitute the following:

"There is only one Notified Area in the district at Mau. The management is in the hands of a committee consisting of 6 members (5 Muslims and 1 Hindu) and a President who is the Sub-Divisional Officer of Muhammadabad. The net income from all sources amounted to Rs.24,253 approximately in 1933 and the total expenditure was Rs.22,553. The income is usually spent on the pay of the establishment which consists of a Superintendent, a Bakshi tax, a Sub-Overseer, and a pound-keeper as well as on public works and aids to the local English School, Sanskrit Pathshala and three Arabic schools. The committee also maintains a conservancy staff and has lighting arrangements. The sources of income are assessments, tabbazzari, pound-receipts, sales of manure, fines and such other minor heads. A permanent feature of this notified area is that there has never been as much of harmony between the Hindus and Muhammadans who happened to be its members as was desirable."

Act XX towns

Line 27

For the marginal note "Act XX towns" read "Town areas" and delete the entire paragraph from lines 27 to 37 substituting the following "Eight towns in the district had been administered under Act XX of 1856 until that Act was abolished. The towns of Phulpur, Atraulia, Maharajganj, Saraiamir and Kopa had been brought under the provisions of that Act in 1860; while Muhammadabad, Doharighat and Chirnakot in 1864. The income was mainly derived from the usual house-tax, the proceeds being spent on the upkeep of a conservancy staff, the maintenance of a force of chowkidars for watch and ward and other minor local improvements. That Act was subsequently repealed and in 1914 the provisions of the Town Areas Act (Act

2 of 1914) were extended to this district. At present there are nine town areas at Atraulia, Phulpur, Nizamabad, Saraimir, Amila, Dohrighat, Kopaganj, Muhammadabad and Mubarakpur. A committee consisting of five members and one chairman has been established for each town area. One representative of the depressed class has lately been appointed in each town except Saraimir, Nizamabad, Muhammadabad and Mubarakpur where no qualified man was available. The chief source of income in all these towns is the assessment on the circumstances and property. Other heads of income are slaughter-house fees and sales of manure, etc. The income is spent on the maintenance of a Bakshi tax and conservancy staff as well as on public works and lighting arrangements. The accounts are maintained at Sadar by a town area clerk whose pay is charged proportionately from all the towns."

The total income during 1933-34 amounted to Rs.80.5 0. The Municipal Board of Azamgarh manages 35.593 acres of Nazul lands—buildings 14.831 acres, culturable land 3.702 acres, and roads 17.060 acres. The total income amounted to Rs.291-4-0. There are only 1.122 acres of Nazul land under Government management which yield an annual rent of Rs.22.

CHAPTER V

HISTORY

Later Moghuls

Page 165

Certain modifications have been made in the family history of the Rajas of Azamgarh in Chapter III. In the light of facts brought to our notice therefore, the following alterations in the history of the Later Moghuls will be necessary :

Delete the matter between "Something has already been said . . . to one of influence at the Imperial Court" and substitute the following

"The family claims descent from the Gautam Rajput dynasty of the Rajas of Aargal (Fatehpur District). Raja Harbaran Deo of Aargal fought against Humayun and espoused the cause of Sher Shah, the result being that his grandson Raja Bhairo Sah Deo was severely defeated by Akbar at Kalpi. The Rajas of Azamgarh have descended from one Chandrasen Singh of Menhnagar who lived in the time of Akbar. The legend is that this Chandrasen, was younger brother of Raja Bhairo Sah Deo and that he left Aargal after the battle of Kalpi for Menhnagar. Chandrasen had two sons, Sagar and Abhiman. Chandrasen himself is not mentioned in the historical records of his time, but Abhiman Singh appears to have secured for himself a fairly large estate round Menhnagar. The story of his rise to power is not fully known to us. According to one legend he became a Musalman under the name of Daulat Khan and rose to a high position from a eunuch of the court in the personal service of the Emperor Jehangir. He is said to have acquired a large amount of wealth and landed property which he bequeathed to his nephew Harbans Singh. The present Raja on the other hand claims that there is absolutely no proof of Abhiman Singh entering the service as a eunuch and that all that is known about him is that in lieu of his embracing Islam and 'considering his high pedigree' the Emperor bestowed on him a Royal Farman in the fourth year of his reign (A. D 1609) conferring on him the title of Raja Daulat Khan together with a grant of 22 Perganas which included the greatest part of the district of Azamgarh and an allowance of Rs 1,25,000 per annum for ever. The original Farman (the Altumgha Sanad) was examined by Mr. W. I. Robertson, Joint Magistrate of Azamgarh in 1826 in pursuance of an order from the Secretary to Government in the Political Department and a copy of it was forwarded to Fort Williams by him. Mr Thomson, the fifth Settlement Officer of this district, also examined the Sanad in 1837. He has doubted its authenticity but he had no doubt that some such Sanad was given. The phrase 'Nazari-bar-Istahqaq' (considering his rights) appearing in the Farman quoted above does tend to show that the honour was bestowed to Daulat Khan on account of his deserts. This Daulat Khan has been confused with Khwajah Daulat Khan of Badauni, the historian of Akbar. Badauni died in A. D. 1595 Muntakhab-ut tawarikh). It is, therefore, certain that Daulat Khan of Jehangir's Farman was different from Khwajah Daulat Khan of Akbar's time 'who rose from a subordinate position to one of influence at the Imperial Court'.

" To the north-west of the village there is an old dry tank, called Hathiyah-dah, or the 'elephant's tank', with an inscribed pillar standing in the middle of it. The pillar itself is called Hathiyah-dah ki-lat, or the 'pillar of the elephant's tank.' The name is derived from a large stone elephant, five feet six inches in length, and four feet 10 inches in height, which stands to the north-west of the pillar, at a distance of 138 feet. Both the pillar and the elephant are formed of a coarse grey sandstone, and they have accordingly suffered from exposure to the weather, and are now much worn. The pillar is a mere cylindrical block, apparently intended for the sole purpose of exhibiting the inscription; its shaft being 12 feet nine inches in height and one foot five inches in diameter, both at base and top. The capital is a flat circular slab, slightly rounded on the upper edge, and quite plain. The inscription occupies 10 lines; but as the letters are large and coarsely cut, it is not a long one. It records the excavation of the tank by several Thakhurs, of whom the chief is Bellan Thakhura, the treasurer of Gosala Devi, the queen of Govindachandra Deva of Kanauj, on Thursday, the 5th of the waning moon of Ashadha, in Samvat 1201, and not Samvat 1207 as General Cunningham reads. To the west of the pillar there is a low mound of brick ruins, 170 feet in length from north to south and 25 feet broad. It is called Siwari-ka-tila, most probably it has some reference to a temple of Siva which may have stood there in former days."
